

GRANTLEY HALL

Welcome to our wine list. I have created a fabulous and varied list with many interesting wines. I hope that there is something here to suit all different tastes and pockets! I have focused on the classical areas of France which complement the food in Fletchers perfectly.

There is also a huge range of much more varied and more unusual wines to be found, such as some wonderful wines from Greece and South Africa, please do ask to speak to a member of the wine team if you would like any guidance or recommendations.

Cheers!

Founded by Nicolas Ruinart in 1729, Ruinart has some of the most interesting history of all the Grand Marque houses.

Indeed, it can be said that Ruinart was the first actual 'Champagne' House. The elegant bottle shape is inspired by the first bottles from the 18th Century used to produce Champagne.

The famous Cuvée made by the house is their Blanc de Blancs range made from 100% Chardonnay. Their top cuvée the 'Dom Ruinart' is also a blanc de blancs. The R de Ruinart is a blend of Pinot Noir and Chardonnay.

English Wines

The English wine industry is a comparative young upstart compared to its continental cousins. However, with advances in technology and wine makers unperturbed by the inclement weather some quality wines are now being produced. Sparkling wine has become a real forte for the industry and Bolney Estate is undoubtedly one of the leading producers of still wine in the country.

BURGUNDIAN WHITES

Arguably the best region for white wines in the world, Burgundy is certainly one of the most famous. All the whites in this section are made with Chardonnay, yet all of them are different in style, showing the incredible diversity of the Burgundian landscape. Crisp dry unoaked Chablis is made in the north, while much rounder, richer full-bodied whites are made in the Villages of Chassagne, Puligny and Meursault. These villages produce some of the most sought-after white wine in the world.

White Wines Of Europe

ITALIAN WHITES

Italy is home to a diverse range of wines, from the unusual Müller Thurgau in the north to more rounded riper ones like Garganega from Soave. One of my favourites, Gavi is fresh, lean, very dry and made from the Cortese grape

			Bottle
21.	2019	Pinot Grigio Ca' Tesore, Friuli	£36.00
155.	2018	Pinot Grigio, Villa Sandi, Veneto	£40.00

SPANISH WHITES

Spain, another country producing a huge variety of wine styles. Delicious oak-aged white Riojas are serious food wines, whilst the fabulous Albariño from Galicia in the north west can make for an interesting alternative to Sauvignon Blanc. Godello, also from the north is a much smoother rounded white, maybe even comparable to some Burgundies.

29.	2018	Tempranillo Blanco, Rioja Vega, Rioja	£43.00

PORTUGUESE WHITES

White wine is not the first thing to spring to mind when thinking of Portugal, however they really make delicious whites. From the crisp approachable Coroa d'Ouro to the much more full bodied and rich Branco da Ribeira.

192.	2017	Branco da Ribeira, Manoel Poças, Douro Valley	£132.00

GERMAN WHITES

Germany is famed for its Riesling and rightly so. It is potentially the world's most varied grape, producing the rich, slightly sweet Spätlese and the off-dry Kabinett. Some would argue that these are the greatest whites in the world and Riesling the most noble variety.

			Bottle
195.	2018	Riesling Kabinett, Winzergenossenschaft, Moselland	£34.00

HUNGARIAN WHITES

Hungary is famous for producing Tokaji Aszú a concentrated sweet wine, however, they also produce an interesting range of whites. Their Dry Furmint are the same grape as is used for the sweet one however dry, intensely perfumed and clean.

			Bottle
210.	2016	Talisman Dry Furmint	£37.00
20.	2019	Talisman Grüner Veltliner	£34.00

GREEK WHITE

In a continent with some incredible vinous history, the wine industry in Greece is undoubtedly one of the oldest. The Skouras wine is from Peloponnese made from native grapes. It has lovely floral aromatics and citrus fruits on the palate. Whilst the island wines are wonderful fresh and crisp alternatives.

			Bottle
215.	2019	Cuvée Prestige White, Domaine Skouras, Peloponnese	£39.00
216.	2017	3,14, Vidiano, Domaine Paterianakis	£77.00
217.	2019	Assyritiko, Gavalas Winery, Santorini	£89.00

White Wines Of The World

AUSTRALIAN WHITES

One of the largest producers of wine in the world, Australian wine continues to go from strength to strength. Their modern Chardonnays can give some Burgundies a run for their money, whilst Riesling and Semillon have found a home in the Clare Valley.

			Bottle
24.	2019	Chardonnay, Kingston Estate, Padthaway	£49.00
261.	2015	Growers' Sémillon, Mitchell, Claire Valley	£46.00
262.	2017	Watervale Riesling, Mitchell, Claire Valley	£48.00

NEW ZEALAND WHITES

Home to Marlborough and its own quintessential style of Sauvignon Blanc, New Zealand has so much more to offer than just this one varietal. Chardonnay is well established and producing great wines at much better value for money than elsewhere in the world. Look out for Felton Road, undoubtedly one of the country's great producers of red as well as white.

			Bottle
22.	2019	Sauvignon Blanc, Kuki, Marlborough	£42.00

SOUTH AFRICAN WHITES

The quality of wine here has increased exponentially over the last decade or so in South Africa with some fantastic small family owned and run operations. I have focused here a lot on the Avondale Winery, who produce an incredibly good range of wines from their organic and biodynamic vineyards.

			Bottle

CHILEAN WHITES

South America is primarily famed for its robust and rich red wines, although some great whites are now made in Chile. Whilst they produce some other more well-known varieties, they are starting to put their own mark on Varietals like Marsanne/ Roussanne blends, made in an Old-World style with New World technology which makes them incredible value for money.

27.	2017	Gewürztraminer, Reserva, Los Romeros, Central Valley	£38.00

USA WHITES

The US makes some of the best wine outside of Europe, sadly high production costs don't make these the most accessible of wines. However, what you do have are wines made with real care by winemakers who have studied at the most prestigious properties in Europe.

They specialise in producing small amounts of 'boutique' wine in a myriad of styles.

			Bottle
320.	2016	Viognier, Cristom Vineyards, Willamette, Oregon	£105.00
322.	2016	Grenache Blanc, Priest Ranch, Napa Valley, California	£80.00

Rosé Wines Of The World

For our rosé wine selection, I have chosen some of what I think to be the world's best examples of this incredibly popular drink. From the dry super crisp styles of Provence, to fuller richer Rioja rosados, and slightly sweeter zinfandel wine from the States, I think there is something for everyone here. The 'Camissa' from South Africa is especially superb and could best some of the best from Provence, a serious wine!

402.	2019	Rioja Rosé, Bodegas Bagordi S.L. Spain	£34.00

Bottle

441. 2019 Chinon La Noblaie, Domaine de la Noblaie £47.00

BEAUJOLAIS REDS

The Beaujolais is an area to the south of Burgundy producing red wines from the Gamay grape.

Gone are the days of Beaujolais Nouveau, many growers now focus on natural techniques resulting in light but very fruit forward wines with some gamey flavours coming through in the best.

Bottle

480. 2019 Fleurie, Domaine Pardon £48.00

483. 2013 Moulin-à-Vent 'La Rochelle', Olivier Merlin £85.00

BURGUNDIAN REDS

Undisputedly the most refined and elegant red wine in the world, Burgundy is the home of Pinot Noir, which has been grown here for centuries. The result is a somewhat over complicated system of vineyard designations which can be a bit of a minefield. We have sieved through the multitudes to present this selection of some of the best.

BORDEAUX REDS

Without doubt, Bordeaux is one of, if not THE world's most famous wine producing region, making dry reds from Cabernet Sauvignon, Cabernet Franc, Merlot and Petit Verdot. Communes such as St-Emilion and Pomerol are made predominately from Merlot driven wines, whilst regions on the other side of the river are led by Cabernet Sauvignon.

Red Wines Of The World

ITALIAN REDS

Italy is the world's largest producer of wine and enjoys huge success with both its own native grape varieties as well as international varieties such as Cabernet Sauvignon. In the north the Piedmont is home to the noble Nebbiolo grape and grown in Barolo and Barbaresco to make 'the wine of kings'. In Tuscany, Sangiovese makes wonderful Chiantis and is also blended with Cabernet to make rich and sumptuous 'Super-Tuscans'; wines that challenge the best Bordeaux has to offer. Further South, grape varieties like Nero d'Avola make wonderful approachable easy drinking reds.

Spain is home to the ubiquitous Rioja and the Tempranillo grape which is used across the country. As well as big brooding Grenache and Carignan blends from Priorat. If you want something smooth and subtle with great oak flavours, go for any of the 'reservas' and for something a bit different try the incredible blends by Trio Infernal.

Wine has been made in Greece for millennia. The country has some of the most diverse Terroir for wine making in Europe, from the sun kissed islands of the Aegean to the mountains of Macedonia. These wines are made largely from native grape varieties such as Xinomarvo and Agiorgitiko.

LEBANESE REDS

Historically the near east has some of the oldest evidence of wine making. Despite Lebanon's Bekaa Valley being perfectly situated for producing wine and there being many wineries, only one continues to shine with consistency and longevity. A world class wine that seems able to age forever!

			Bottle
780.	2014	Château Musar, Gaston Hochar	£86.00

AUSTRALIAN REDS

Famous for its big full-bodied high alcohol Shiraz wines, Australian wine making has become a little more restrained recently. The wines becoming more elegant, yet still retaining that great depth and richness of flavour. Lovely full bodied and warming wines.

Like its neighbour Argentina, Chile is now producing excellent quality wines. Although they have had immense success with the usual red varieties like Merlot and Cabernet, they have managed to make the unusual Carmenere their own. This variety used to be found in Bordeaux, but the Chileans have made it an incredible alternative to a good Malbec.

USA REDS

American reds are now regarded to be amongst the very best in their world with Napa Cabernets having stolen the crown from Bordeaux as far back as the mid 70's. As well as the big names from California, Oregon is producing world class Pinot Noirs with a real Burgundian flare.
