

GRANTLEY HALL

Welcome to our wine list. I have created a fabulous and varied list with many interesting wines. I hope that there is something here to suit all different tastes and pockets! I have focused on the classical areas of France which complement the food in Fletchers perfectly.

There is also a huge range of much more varied and more unusual wines to be found, such as some wonderful wines from Greece and South Africa, please do ask to speak to a member of the wine team if you would like any guidance or recommendations.

Cheers!

Founded by Nicolas Ruinart in 1729, Ruinart has some of the most interesting history of all the Grand Marque houses.

Indeed, it can be said that Ruinart was the first actual 'Champagne' House. The elegant bottle shape is inspired by the first bottles from the 18th Century used to produce Champagne.

The famous Cuvée made by the house is their Blanc de Blancs range made from 100% Chardonnay. Their top cuvée the 'Dom Ruinart' is also a blanc de blancs. The R de Ruinart is a blend of Pinot Noir and Chardonnay.

English Wines

The English wine industry is a comparative young upstart compared to its continental cousins. However, with advances in technology and wine makers unperturbed by the inclement weather some quality wines are now being produced. Sparkling wine has become a real forte for the industry and Bolney Estate is undoubtedly one of the leading producers of still wine in the country.

BURGUNDIAN WHITES

Arguably the best region for white wines in the world, Burgundy is certainly one of the most famous. All the whites in this section are made with Chardonnay, yet all of them are different in style, showing the incredible diversity of the Burgundian landscape. Crisp dry unoaked Chablis is made in the north, while much rounder, richer full-bodied whites are made in the Villages of Chassagne, Puligny and Meursault. These villages produce some of the most sought-after white wine in the world.

This region follows another famous river, the Rhône, which flows from the Alps to the Mediterranean. Northern parts of the region produce a delicious Viognier from Condrieu. Marsanne and Roussanne are used in Crozes-Hermitage, whilst further south in the famed Châteauneuf-du-Pape area, a huge multitude of grapes are blended to make an incredible, rich, sophisticated and serious white.

Spain, another country producing a huge variety of wine styles. GERMAN WHITES

Germany is famed for its Riesling and rightly so. It is potentially the world's most varied grape, producing the rich, slightly sweet Spätlese and the off-dry medium Kabinett. Some would argue that these are the greatest whites in the world and Riesling the most noble variety.

			Bottle
195.	2020	Piesporter Michelsberg, Mosel	£34.00
196.	2009	Riesling Spätlese, von Simmern, Erbacher Marcobrum, Rheingau	£105.00
197.	2006	Riesling Auslese, Mönchhoff, Ürzig Würzgarten, Mosel	£85.00

AUSTRIAN WHITE

Historically much maligned, the Austrian wine industry is now producing beautiful wines, right up there with the best the rest of Europe has to offer. The most famous native variety is Grüner Veltliner producing a classic dry white, floral and mineral with a hint of spice.

GREEK WHITE

In a continent with some incredible vinous history, the wine industry in Greece is undoubtedly one of the oldest in Europe. The Skouras wine is from Peloponnese made from native grapes. It has lovely floral aromatics and citrus fruits on the palate. Whilst the island wines are wonderful fresh and crisp alternatives.

White Wines Of The World

AUSTRALIAN WHITES

One of the largest producers of wine in the world, Australian wine continues to go from strength to strength. Their modern Chardonnays can give some Burgundies a run for their money, whilst Riesling and Semillon have found a home in the Clare Valley.

262.	2018	Watervale Riesling, Mitchell, Claire Valley	£48.00

NEW ZEALAND WHITES

Home to Marlborough and its own quintessential style of Sauvignon Blanc, New Zealand has so much more to offer than just this one varietal. Chardonnay is well established and producing great wines at much better value for money than elsewhere in the world. 27.	2020	Gewürztraminer, Reserva, Los Romeros, Central Valley	£42.00

USA WHITES

The US makes some of the best wine outside of Europe, sadly high production costs don't make these the most accessible of wines. However, what you do have are wines made with real care by winemakers who have studied at the most prestigious properties in Europe.

They specialise in producing small amounts of 'boutique' wine in a myriad of styles.

			Bottle

For our rosé wine selection, I have chosen some of what I think to be the world's best examples of this incredibly popular drink. From the dry super crisp styles of Provence, to fuller richer Rioja rosados, and slightly sweeter zinfandel wine from the States, I think there is something for everyone here. The 'Camissa' from South Africa is especially superb and could best some of the best from Provence, a serious wine!

Undisputedly the most refined and elegant red wine in the world, Burgundy is the home of Pinot Noir, which has been grown here for centuries. The result is a somewhat over complicated system of vineyard designations which can be a bit of a minefield. We have sieved through the multitudes to present this selection of some of the best.

Without doubt, Bordeaux is one of, if not THE world's most famous wine producing region, making dry reds from Cabernet Sauvignon, Cabernet Franc, Merlot and Petit Verdot. Communes such as St-Emilion and Pomerol are made predominately from Merlot driven wines, whilst regions on the other side of the river are led by Cabernet Sauvignon.

Red Wines Of The World

ITALIAN REDS

Italy is the world's largest producer of wine and enjoys huge success with both its own native grape varieties as well as international varieties such as Cabernet Sauvignon. In the north the Piedmont is home to the noble Nebbiolo grape and grown in Barolo and Barbaresco to make 'the wine of kings'. In Tuscany, Sangiovese makes wonderful Chiantis and is also blended with Cabernet to make rich and sumptuous 'Super-Tuscans'; wines that challenge the best Bordeaux has to offer. Further South, grape varieties like Nero d'Avola make wonderful approachable easy drinking reds.
